

Effective Wound Prevention and Management for Support Workers

Understanding Complex Wound Management

Welcome to 'Effective Wound Prevention and Management for Support Workers,' a comprehensive online course designed specifically for healthcare and disability support workers. In the demanding field of caregiving, maintaining skin integrity and managing complex wounds are critical skills that directly impact the quality of life and health outcomes of participants.

This course provides an in-depth exploration of wound care, from basic skin anatomy and physiology to advanced chronic wound management and collaborative practice. Throughout this course, you will learn how to identify different wound types, understand the healing process, and implement effective risk screening and prevention strategies. We will guide you through the essential steps of complex wound care support, including wound cleansing, dressing selection, exudate and odour control, and pain management. You will also gain vital knowledge in first aid for bleeding, infection control, and palliative wound care.

Furthermore, this program emphasises the importance of holistic assessment, culturally safe services, and collaborative care, ensuring you can work effectively with specialists and empower the individuals you support. With dedicated modules on proper documentation and telehealth integration, you will be fully equipped to meet industry standards. Enhance your clinical skills, minimise harm, and deliver exceptional, person-centered care with confidence.

Understand complex wound management to elevate your professional practice in wound prevention and management.
